Boundary Change Cuts Republican Vote Power

By POLITICUS

The removal of Lafayette, Orinda, Moraga and surrounding areas from the 10th Assembly District will make it easier for a Democratic Assembly candidate to be elected in what was traditionally a Republican stronghold until 1958.

The legislative reapportionment bill, recently signed into law by Governor Edmund Brown, moves the 11th District boundaries to the east.

It lumps Lafayette, Orinda and Moraga votes with the avalanche of votes which always can be expected from strongly Democrat Richmond.

IN OTHER words, Lafayette-Orinda-Moraga votes can no longer be placed where they used to count the most. (See photo.)

And Walnut Creek, Concord, Danville and Alamo Republicans may sorely miss this support.

Is this just a political gerrymander?

This question was asked of Assemblyman Jerome Waldie, popular young state leader whose Democrat label did not stop many Republicans from helping re-elect him for a second term last year.

WALDIE reminded the Sun that, " . . . There was no opposition to the bill, and the Republican Central Committee did not propose an alternative plan or express opposition."

Waldie said that of the some 80 Assembly districts in the entire state only two or three districts were not affected by the bill.

He added, "Actually, the reapportionment in Contra Costa was the easiest in the state since the problem was so obvious."

Waldie referred to the fact that the Republican reapportionment in 1950 followed the Contra Costa County supervisorial district boundaries, and the Democrat 11th District had Supervisorial District No. 1 only.

THE 10TH District had Supervisorial Districts No. 2, 3, 4 and 5.

Now, 11th District has Supervisorial District No. 1 and part of Supervisorial District No. 2.

He said, "You may have known that the central committee's original recommendation was to move the 11th District lines to coincide with the boundary between the Supervisorial Districts No. 2 and 3.

"This would have also placed Alamo, Danville, Diablo and San Ramon in the 11th District, and the state law and rules pertaining to reapportionment would not have been violated."

HE SAID, "It is important to remember that the state constitution requires the legislature to reapportion the assembly districts according to population every 10 years.

"If you divide the total of 80 Assembly seats into the total state population, you get the figure of 195,000 as the 'ideal' population figure for each Assembly district.

"Now, in 1960, the 11th District, with Richmond, had only 170,000 people, while the 10th District had 250,000.

"The Richmond area, as you know, has been losing some population, and the central county area has been gaining steadily.

"SO THERE was a 50,000 to 60,000 population difference.

"With the reapportionment, the 11th District now has 195,000 people, and the central county's 10th District has 210,000.

"If Danville and Alamo had been switched over, the populations would have been about equal.

"You will note we followed the precedent set by the Republican legislature in 1950 in using supervisorial boundary lines as much as possible.

"INCIDENTALLY, we believe that by the 1970 census, Contra Costa County will probably qualify for a third assemblyman."

The Sun asked Waldie about the political effect of the change in boundaries in this county.

Before the change, the 11th District, with Richmond, was 72 per cent Democratic, he replied.

Now, the 11th District is 60 per cent Democratic.

BEFORE the change, the 10th District, the central county, was 54 per cent Democratic.

Now the 10th District is 59 per cent Democratic.

Waldie even admitted that some day it might be possible that the respective districts might completely switch positions, with the Richmond District going Republican due to Richmond's lessing population and the Lafayette area growing steadily.

And the central county may, of course, swing to the Demo side, with more industry along the "waterline."

WAS THE reapportionment a political move by state Demo leaders?

"No question that this was the result. But I think it is significant that in the Assembly, not only did all Democrats vote for it, but a majority of the Republicans (17 of 33) also voted for it," replied Waldie.

The legislative bill was sponsored by Robert Crown, Alameda County Democrat and chairman of the elections and reapportionment committee.

And how does all this affect Jerry Waldie?

"WELL, I will no longer have Lafayette, Orinda, Kensington and incidentally strongly Democratic Crockett voting in my district.

"I was outvoted in Lafayette and Orinda last time.

"I won by only 6700 votes in 1958, but the margin was 18,000 last year. My position is naturally improved as a result of the reapportionment.

"But I consider my election in 1958 a sort of a fluke, when I rode in on a Democratic landslide in a 53 per cent Democrat district.

"The change means that another Democratic candidate without an incumbent label will be in a better position than I was in 1958, and he won't need a state-wide landslide to win."

WALDIE ADDED, "There are other factors. Republicans in this district are more active and turn out at the polls. Democrats have not been as responsive.

"And Democrats in this district are more prone to cross party lines and vote for a Republican.

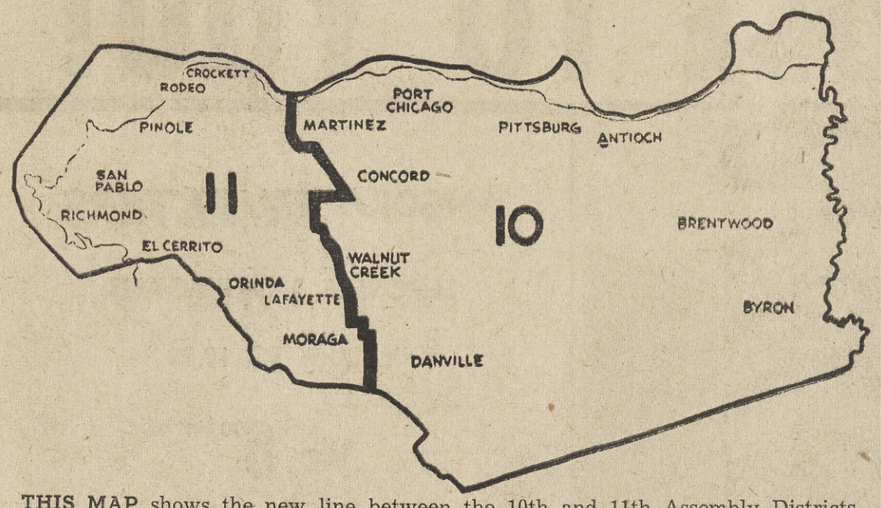
"Republicans don't have as strong a tendency in this direction.

"And also, Democrats don't have the financing. A Democratic candidate needs a 56 per cent Democratic registration to begin with if he wants to win."

WALDIE added he is ready and eager to talk to civic groups in Lafayette, Orinda, Walnut Creek and the central county about reapportionment.

Persons representing interested groups need only call his office in Antioch to arrange a time and place.

Waldie said he has been speaking about four times a week on this and other subjects to groups in Concord, Antioch, Kensington and other areas.



THIS MAP shows the new line between the 10th and 11th Assembly Districts in Contra Costa County. Note that Lafayette, Orinda and Moraga no longer vote with their other central county friends in the Assembly races.

Board Denies Tax Reductions

Four Local Applicants Fail to Convince Board

Meeting as a board of equalization, the Contra Costa County Board of Supervisors denied the requests of four out of four local applications for tax assessment reductions.

The four applicants, residents of Lafayette and Orinda, protested their high assessments during the recent meetings of the board July 13 and 17.

ONE ORINDA applicant, Herbert A. Waterman, 19 Vista Del Mar, told the Sun, "I hope I can pay my taxes."

"Is there any recourse to the denial?" he was asked by the Sun.

"From a practical standpoint, no," Waterman replied.

"One could go to the courts," he said. "But the problem there is proving the equivalent of fraud on the part of the board of supervisors and/or tax assessor."

"I have no case in this respect," he explained.

Waterman stated he thought the process of comparing one property to another was inequitable.

"YOU CAN'T compare land assessments from parcel to parcel," he added.

In order to upset a denial the recourse is to prove in court that the technique of assessing is legally wrong or there is a definite inequity between similar or identical assessments.

Waterman, who is an attorney, told the Sun, "It is a rare thing to upset the assessor's valuation."

ALSO DENIED at the July 17 hearing in Martinez, along with Waterman and others, was the Rheem Center Bowl in Rheem. Two El Cerrito residents were given tax reductions, however.

H. B. Wheeler, 29 Dias Dorados, Orinda, protested the assessed valuation of his property from $2380 to $8800 in one year.

He also said that the property without the house, he estimated, would sell for only $5500. He added that two years ago perhaps he could have sold it for $4255.

HE TOLD the board that three years ago his home was valued at $23,000.

The county tax assessors said that they had figured the assessment on the basis that the house was a side-hill lot and had been excavated.

He also said that they had figured the house's depreciation into the assessment.

The original appraisal on the property was made in January of this year and had been reduced in June. According to the assessor, the house it now worth $24,500; adding to that, the land value of $4700, the total comes to $29,200.

SALES of other property in the area was shown to range from $32,500 to $33,000.

According to Supervisor Thomas Coll, the property was underassessed. Wheeler's protest was denied.

M. E. Lucas, 3709 Sundale Road, Lafayette, protested the assessment of one of his properties from $820 to $9750 in one jump.

This land lies behind the Hillside Motel in Lafayette and it is about .99 of an acre, according to Lucas. He added that the lot has only a shed on it and the only improvement has been some Lucas said he had put it on the grading.

THE MARKET value of the lot, according to the assessor, is $36,000. This was based on the comparison of surrounding properties. These have multiple residences on them.

One comparison was a nearby lot with an apartment house on it which is .66 of an acre. This sold for $27,000 and is worth that now.

Another comparison was a lot most like his in the area. This has an apartment building on it also and is 1.14 acres. A creek restricts its full use, so that it is actually smaller.

Again using comparisons, the board called the assessment fair and Lucas' request was denied.

Paul W. Hanlin, 276 Glorietta Boulevard, Orinda, protested his present assessment of $5250 on his home in Orinda.

HE SAID that there had been very few improvements on his home other than general upkeep. Seven years ago, he said, the market value of his home was $17,250 and that at the present it was $19,450.

He said the assessor had placed a value on his heater and air-conditioner of 100 years' life each. He wanted to know how he could make them last 100 years each.

A spokesman for the county tax assessor's office said that this was not an assessment of each individual item, but of over-all house goods.

The board voted it a fair assessment and denied Hanlin's request.

Fire Danger Is Great; $30,000 Home Is Lost

"Everything is so hot, anything will burn now," said county supervisor Mel Nielsen.

He spoke after a $30,000 Alamo home burned to the ground Tuesday in the wake of an 800-acre fire south of Walnut Creek, and a 2000-acre fire on Mt. Diablo had persisted for three days.

Every fire district in the county should issue an order forbidding the lighting of any fires at all, not even in legal incinerators, until the heat wave is over, Nielsen told The Sun.

BUT NIELSEN denied that there is sufficient cause to declare Contra Costa County a disaster area, as was suggested last week by Will Perry, civil defense director.

"We would have to prove this is really a disaster area. It's bad but not to that point," Nielsen said.

Nielsen Tuesday boarded a plane with fire officials and observed the flames just south of Walnut Creek, as he had done the previous Friday when portions of Mt. Diablo were burning.

The Walnut Creek fire started possibly from an incinerator in the Rudgear Road area, and strong winds whipped it over 800 acres, destroying the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gray at 351 Livorna Heights Road, Alamo.

THE HUSBAND and wife in the early 1940s built the home themselves, except for the roof and hardwood floor. They were away when the blaze reached the home.

Firemen from the Danville Fire District, Central Fire District and several other districts fought the flames in the midst of 100-plus temperatures.

And calls were coming in from other areas—there were two more small fires in the Mt. Diablo area covering 65 acres, and another first on Kirker Pass Road.

The Rudgear Road conflagration would have been worse except for determined efforts by residents, equipped with garden hoses, shovels and sometimes heavy equipment.

W. J. VAN LIMBURG, Danville's Fire District chief, said John Artero, 80, saved his barn with a garden hose. He held off the flames for one hour, long enough for help to arrive.

Artero suffers from arthritis and uses a cane.

The flames almost reached a gasoline tank at the Robert Jones 7 Oaks Ranch on Miranda Avenue, but hoses saved the day.

But the news was not good elsewhere.

IN ADDITION to the loss of the Gray home, many tons of baled hay went up in smoke on the Wilson Road lands of R. F. Daily and Harry Magee.

The fires on Mt. Diablo first brought firemen and forestry men from a wide area on Thursday night, last week.

Before the danger was past, state forestry tanker planes loaded with borates and water were called in to "bomb" the area.

Hundreds of residents flocked to the area to volunteer to help fight the fire, and Red Cross vehicles were on hand.

OFFICIALS believe the main fires were started by an arsonist.

Sheriff Walter Young Saturday announced that two young men had admitted setting a small grassfire on the mountain. It was not related to the bigger fires.

He said the boys are Norman Ackley, 17, of 17 Hotaling Court, Kentfield, and Andrew Carrino, Jr., of 25 W. Crescent Drive, San Rafael.

Young said they were cited to juvenile hall, pending juvenile probation department action.

While the Mt. Diablo fires burned uncontrolled, other fires could be seen in the Bollinger mountain area, south of Mt. Hamilton. This fire covered more than 6000 acres.

District Governor Pays Annual Visit to Rotary

Edward H. Pitcher, Governor, District 516, Rotary International, made his official annual visit to the Orinda Rotary Club Wednesday at the Casa Orinda.

Prior to addressing the group, Pitcher held a conference with Tom Horton, Rotary president; Leighton MacGregor, secretary and committee chairman. He discussed Rotary administration and committee activities.

Pitcher is executive secretary of the Rotary Club of Oakland, a member and past president of same. After 30 years in the market equipment business, he retired in 1958 to devote full time to Rotary activities.

He is active in United Crusade, Boy Scouts and community affairs. Pitcher was elected district governor at the annual convention of Rotary Clubs in Tokyo in May. He is one of 269 district governors supervising more than 11,000 Rotary clubs with membership of 509,000 in 123 countries.

Pool Thefts Concern Parents

Stealing from the lockers at the Miramonte High School swim pool during the afternoon hours of community swimming has become a matter of grave concern to a number of parents, according to Mrs. May Anderson of 14 La Cuesta.

Admitting that youngsters who have lost watches and other valuables at the pool were not following directions to check all valuables at the entrance, Mrs. Anderson said she thought all parents should be aware of the thefts and discuss the problem with their children.

Mrs. Anderson's daughter, Maxine, who graduated with Miramonte's first graduating class, was a recent victim of pool robbery.

According to Maxine, she had carefully hidden a Swiss Rolex watch in her clothing when she left same in the locker to go swimming. When she returned from swimming, the watch was gone. She described the watch as being small, oyster shaped, and with a detachable red band. The serial number of the watch is CR 349-30-502.

The watch was brought from Switzerland by Maxine's grandparents as her graduation present two years ago. According to Mrs. Anderson, two young girls were seen going through the lockers on the day the watch was stolen, but no one could identify the girls.

Redistricting Loses by 3-2

The Contra Costa supervisors voted 3-2 against setting a January 1 deadline for initiating a study of realigning the supervisorial district boundaries.

Supervisor James Kenney of Richmond moved to have the study included among future programs, and Supervisor Tom Coll seconded him.

But Supervisors Mel Nielsen, Edmund Linscheid and Joseph Silva voted no.

Linscheid said, "If redistricting is made mandatory by the legislature, we will still have plenty of time to do it."

Kenney pointed out that he and Coll have the largest districts from the population standpoint, including more than 75 per cent of the county's 400,000 total.

Assessment Roll Certified

A record assessment roll of $734,734,220 was certified Tuesday by the Contra Costa board of supervisors.

The action was taken after the supervisors, sitting as a board of equalization, heard 17 protests against assessments levied by County Assessor C. L. Dunklee for 1961-62.

Separate story in this edition carries details of local protests.

Jim Mullen Brings Magic Here! Read and Believe!

By JEAN JERNIGAN

If this print disappears as you read it, don't worry about your eyesight, the thoughts and the ink have been touched with magic.

There is supposed to be a picture with this story. We're not sure. Our photographer, a professional of long standing, took three pictures on his original assignment . . . he emerged from his dark room with three blanks.

He went back again the next night, we saw the results, but anything can and does happen when 18-year-old Jim Mullen, already a professional magician, happens to be around.

JIM INTRODUCED himself to The Sun's editorial staff this week. We're prepared for most anything, but this completely disarming young man with infectious good humor and a natural talent for entertaining had us baffled.

Probably the only thing that kept our collective typewriters from rising through the air to outer space was Jim's desire to tell his story.

Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Mullen of 10 Tappan Court, Orinda. The Mullens are newcomers to Orinda, but this delightful family will not long be in the ranks of those unknown. Edward Mullen, Jim's dad, is president of the California Life Insurance Company with offices in Oakland. Jim's 14-year-old brother, Mike, will be a freshman at Miramonte and is also a magician of sorts.

HEREWITH enter complications. Mike is not really named "Mike." He is actually named Danny. According to Jim, Mike is Mike because he is "always speaking."

Jim began his career in kindergarten in Bethesda, Maryland. They've lived just about everywhere since, the latest place being Lake Forest, Illinois.

Jim says the moves were necessary because "I sawed the lady in half and couldn't get her back together again" and reels off a number of cities and states.

We suspect his dad's business transfers and promotions made the moves necessary, because with Jim's talent he could put most anything together again, even Humpty Dumty.

Anyway, Jim's career did begin in kindergarten with the magic of balls of paper disappearing through non-existent holes in a table.

"My dad, an amateur magician, used to play this trick on me," Jim said. "Finally, he showed me how, and I performed for the kindergarten class. "You know, sometimes I still find myself looking for those holes that weren't there, but most of the time I fool dad now."

AND WELL he may. Jim is, or was, the youngest person ever to be admitted to the membership of International Brotherhood of Magicians. At 17 he was an officer of his Ring, the terminology used for what is normally called "chapters."

Jim received recognition in Chicago's leading newspapers for his feat of accurately driving a car blindfolded. He has studied under and performed with the world's greatest magicians. The late Dr. Harlan Tarbell was one of his instructors.

Family and friends have nurtured Jim's talent. He said, "I have an entensive library of magic, given to me on various occasions, and tricks, too.

MEANWHILE, on the prosaic side, Jim will enter the University of California, Berkeley, as a freshman in the liberal arts curriculum with aspirations of studying law after receiving his degree. "Lawyers play tricks, too, you know," said this personable new resident.

Chamber Gets Survey Proposals

Five engineering firms have been interviewed regarding conducting a parking survey in Orinda, according to Clarence Betz, Orinda Chamber of Commerce secretary.

Betz said one proposal has already been submitted, with three more due this week. The proposals will be considered by the chamber directors and the parking committee.

Selection of a firm will be made within the next two weeks, Betz said.

Representatives of the Southern Pacific Company and the Santa Fe Railway discussed proposals of their respective companies to take over control of the Western Pacific Railroad before the Orinda Chamber of Commerce last week at the Casa Orinda.

Telephone Company To Build Addition

Pacific Telephone has filed application with the Contra Costa County Board of Adjustments to construct a building addition to its Moraga dial equipment office.

The addition would be 25 by 25 feet on the rear of the existing building, located on the northwest corner of Canyon Road and School Street, according to H. C. Greenhalgh, PT&T manager.

$35 Million Bond Issue

A $35 million county bond issue, most of it for roads in both cities and unincorporated areas, the rest for parks and county buildings, has been recommended by Contra Costa County Administrator Joseph McBrien.

Both McBrien and Public Works Director Victor Sauer outlined the proposal Tuesday to county supervisors.

It would provide $17,200,000 for "unincorporated" roads, $7,800,000 for "city" roads, $5 millions for park acquisition and another $5 millions for buildings.

IF THE bond issue is approved by the voters, it will result in only a slight tax increase or none at all, said McBrien.

He noted that the $35 millions, if carried for 30 years at 3.5 per cent interest, would call for annual payments of $1,903,000.

And the bond issue taxes would be lessened each year if the assessed values in the county increase from the present $950 millions to the expected $2.4 billion during that time, he said.

The bond issue proposal, on suggestion of Supervisor Tom Coll, will be further analyzed and returned for more discussion next Tuesday.

IT WILL be examined by the board's finance committee, County Auditor Howard McNamer, McBrien and Sauer.

McBrien said the county has the power now to bond itself to $45 millions. Its present indebtedness is only $8 millions.

The county is allowed to bond itself to 5 per cent of its assessed valuation, which is $45 millions.

Sauer indicated it would probably not be possible to put the bond proposal before the voters before next year, perhaps in March.

THE $5 millions for new buildings will chiefly benefit police protection, rehabilitation services, health and hospital and also public works.

This does not include the $3 million county administration building since this will be financed by the county employee retirement funds.

The park sites are located all over the county, with an eye to recreation, water sports, fishing, camping, picnicking, hiking and historical sites, said McBrien.

Rapid Transit—Its Cost to Homeowner

You, as a homeowner, will pay three cents per $100 assessed valuation, the first year, if rapid transit gets voter approval in 1962. And the highest tax may not go higher than 64 cents.

The 64-cent maximum is considered a "likely" figure by Stone and Youngberg, financial consultants for the San Francisco Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

It is lower than the more "conservative" figure—70 cents—submitted by the district's New York financial consultant, Smith, Barney and Company.

THE SMITH, Barney figures, recently announced, concerned the issue of some $1,078,000,000 in general obligation bonds to finance rapid transit for five counties, including Contra Costa.

The bond election next June will require only a 60 per cent yes vote.

If successful, a 40-year process of retiring the indebtedness will begin.

Homeowners, businesses, factories and all taxable entities in Contra Costa, Alameda, Marin, San Francisco and San Mateo Counties will begin paying "debt service."

ACTUAL payment on the principle would begin in about 10 years—1972—and would continue for 30 years more.

The physical system, as it has been planned, would be completed in 10 years.

The bond sales would be controlled by the BARTD debt limit of 15 per cent of the assessed value of all property in the counties.

Debt service would go from $1,467,000 the first year to some $70 millions in 1988-89, the "maximum" year.

TOTAL INTEREST, figured at 4 per cent, would amount to about $1,084,000,000.

Smith, Barney's estimate that 70 cents will be the maximum individual tax rate, reached in about 10 years, is based on a "conservative" viewpoint that the growth of assessed valuation in the Bay Area will at best be moderate.

The more moderate the Bay Area's growth in assessment, the higher the tax rate is needed to carry the bonded debt.

However, Stone and Youngberg, a "local" San Francisco firm, is releasing its own figures which take a brighter view of the increase in the Bay Area's wealth (and assessed value) and therefore its ability to carry the debt with a somewhat lower tax.

STONE and Youngberg reports are saying that assessed values will be much higher in the future, and it is "likely" that the maximum tax for the individual homeowner will be 64 cents per $100 assessed value.

This means:

Your home valued at $12,000, and assessed at $3000, would bring a tax bill during the "maximum" year of $19.20.

If your home is valued at $16,000, and assessed at $4000, the tax bill during "maximum" year would be about $25.60.

HOME VALUE $20,000, assessment $5000, tax bill $32.

Home value $24,000, assessment $6000, tax bill $38.40.

Incidentally, if you are interested in how the tax rate goes from three cents to 64 cents, here is a Stone and Youngberg projection:

Three cents, first year; 9½ cents, second year; 23 cents, third year; 37, fourth; 45, fifth; 47, sixth; 50, seventh; 51, eighth; 54, ninth 54, tenth; 64, eleventh.

IT WOULD stay at the 64-cent maximum for about four to six years and then the tax rate would begin dropping again.

As a taxpayer you can mull over the "conservative" view of Smith, Barney and its 70-cent maximum, also the "optimistic" view of Stone and Youngberg, with the 64-cent maximum.

The bill will pay for rapid transit in the Bay Area, which is already strangling in its automobiles and rubber-wheeled vehicles.

The trans-bay tube, linking the east and west sides of the bay, will be separately financed through surplus automobile tolls on the Bay bridge. Cost: $133,000,000.

REVENUES from the system should pay for operating and maintenance, also should finance the purchase of $149 millions in rolling stock.

The BARTD statement concerning the capital cost also pointed out that although the total tax bill during a few "maximum" years will be from $20 to $40, the average Bay Area salaried worker pays each year some $880 for automobile purchase and operation.

This was exceeded only by food, $2369, and housing, $1495.

It was added that commuting motorists who carry auto insurance will have their insurance costs reduced by $25 to $50 per year if they use the transit.

And they save gas and oil costs.

BARTD general manager John Peirce said, " . . . There are some who will overemphasize the tremendous capital cost of the system without considering this cost in context of the benefits the system will bring to the Bay Area or of he cost of alternative methods of mass movement of people—particularly if we continue to depend largely on individual passenger automobiles for this purpose.

"While it is difficult to make comparisons between the capital costs of moving people by rail rapid transit and on highways, it is conceded that the least-cost system involves a combination of rapid transit and highways.

"It stands to reason that it is more economical in terms of capital costs and operating costs to move 700 people in a single rapid transit train than by moving them in 400 automobiles, each transporting an average of 1.7 persons.

"While the projected capital cost is large in comparison with many other government capital requirements at the local level, its burden will decline year by year with the growth in population and the increase in the assessed valuation of taxable property.

"The question is—can the Bay Area afford not to have a rapid transit system in operation when the time comes that our population is twice the present level and there isn't enough ground space to accommodate motor vehicles for the mass movement of people in this great and growing area," Peirce said.

Wohlgemuth Resigns; Howard Is Appointed

Harmon K. Howard of Walnut Creek has been appointed to the Contra Costa Junior College District governing board, following the surprise resignation of O. H. Wohlgemuth.

Wohlgemuth was elected to a four-year term three months ago. Howard will serve out the four-year term.

Howard is secretary-treasurer of the Howard Terminal Company of Oakland.

WOHLGEMUTH, 54, was chairman of the county school redistricting committee in 1948 that recommended formation of the college.

He explained that he felt it necessary to resign for health reasons and because his business interests required him to move his home to San Francisco.

He is owner of the Sunberry Company, a San Francisco food products firm.

Wohlgemuth had served on the governing board since his original appointment in January of 1949 following district formation voted by the people.

Under the board's rotational policy he was board president on three separate occasions, served twice as vice-president and four times as secretary.

HE IS ONE of the founders and vice-president of the Contra Costa Historical Society and contributed 75,000 words to the History of Contra Costa County published in 1951.

Howard, who is 46, lives at 2373 Walnut Boulevard with his wife, Joan, and three children, Keith, 18; Christine, 14, and Lester, 7.

A native of Oakland, he has been a resident of Walnut Creek since 1921.

He joined the Howard Terminal Company in 1939.

A FAMILY enterprise, the firm was established in 1900 by his grandfather, John L. Howard.

He attended Walnut Creek elementary schools and the Mt. Diablo Union High School.

He received his bachelor of arts degree in economics from Stanford University in 1937 and a degree of master of business administration from the same university in 1939.

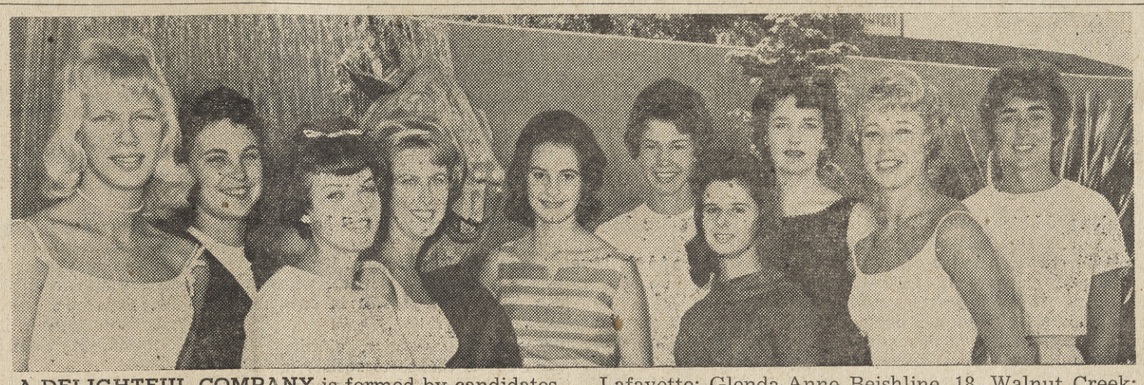
Howard served as a lieutenant with the Navy throughout World War II, being assigned duties with the San Francisco port director in 1941.

HE HAD similar duties on Peleliu island in the South Pacific during the last 14 months of the war.

Howard is a director of the Pacific Maritime Association and the Morris Plan of California.

He was president of the California Association of Port Authorities in 1959-60, vice-president of the Maritime Exchange 1952-54, a trustee of the Walnut Creek Elementary School District from 1954 to 1960, and a member of the Contra Costa Republican Central Committee for seven years, of which three were served as chairman.

He is currently a member of an advisory committee to the Walnut Creek City Council on capital improvements.



A DELIGHTFUL COMPANY is formed by candidates for queen of the 1961 Walnut Festival, starting September 21. They are, left to right: Carole Felting, 18, of Lafayette; Michelle Laverty, 17, Walnut Creek; Cloeanne Cox, 17, Walnut Creek; Judy Scott, 20, Lafayette; Glenda-Anne Beishline, 18, Walnut Creek; Linda Borge (dropped out); Susan Holifield, 17, Walnut Creek; Shirley Hartley, 17, Pleasant Hill; Diane Nielsen, 20, Walnut Creek; Pat Doty, 18, Walnut Creek.

Dept. of Motor Vehicles Moves

The California State Department of Motor Vehicles will move its offices Saturday from 1517 Second Avenue, Walnut Creek, to a new building at 1275 Pine Street, Walnut Creek.

Office Manager Frank Cuzzillo said the new office will be open for business at 8 a.m. Monday morning. He expressed concern that people might have difficulty in finding the new location.

He said the new building could be reached from North Main Street or from the northern end of North Broadway. A good landmark, Cruzzillo said, is the Walnut Creek Ice Skating Rink.

Baldwin Named To Committee

U.S. Representative John Baldwin was one of seven representatives on the conference committee which worked out the Wederal Water Pollution Control Bill.

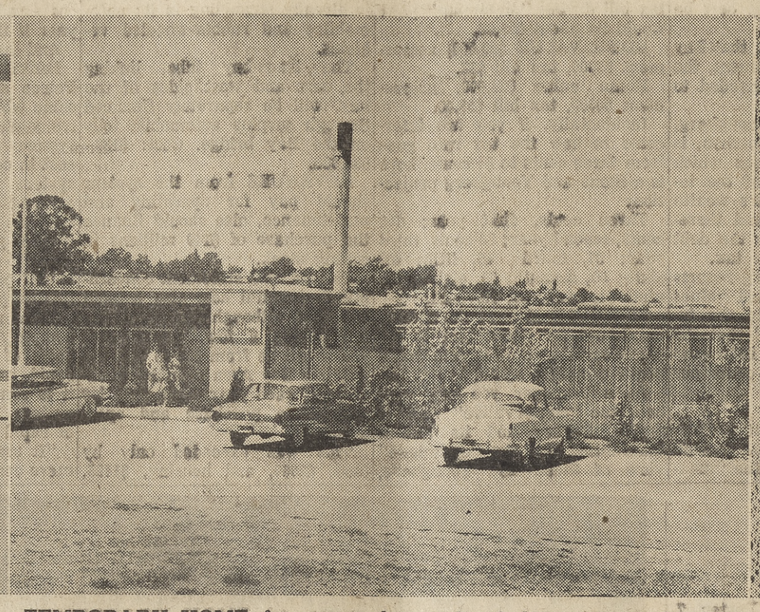
It's A Happy Place, Despite That Little Room

COULD YOU take care of them, please? ask the Andy Raquels of Concord. Deputy Clarence Hanks, Animal Control Center supervisor, checks in two kittens. Sun photos by Pat Hill.



TEMPORARY HOME for many thousands of dogs, cats and other animals is the center. It is the county's answer to the unlimited reproduction of animals, many of which run alone without care or protection.

UNCERTAIN is this pup, but it looks like a new home for him. And it wasn't so bad at the center, though. Shown is Mrs. Henry Mercer and daughters, Barbara, left, and Garnetta, from Brentwood.

By NORMAN COLBY

If you are cute, relatively young, have floppy ears, a waggy tail and an engaging woof, the county's animal control center may be only a stopover before your new life with a new family begins.

But if you are an "old dog," unclaimed somewhat scraggly in appearance, with a tendency to whine or growl—well—your final days on this earth will probably be as comfortable as any you have ever known.

The dog's life is a good one, if short, at the animal control center on Arnold Industrial Highway.

SAME FOR the other animals.

Last year, nearly 19,000 assorted animals, mostly cats and dogs, were brought to the "pound."

(See "Staff Corner.")

Some 1800 of them were returned to their owners.

Another 2000, many of them puppies and kittens, were "adopted," and became beloved pets in homes everywhere in the county.

The rest — more than 15,000 — were fed, cared for, looked over by hundreds of visitors, and finally taken to the little "Euthanasia Room" in back.

THERE, THE animals are placed in a small, bathysphere type apparatus; the air is evacuated, and in a couple of minutes they go painlessly to sleep. The kittens are chloroformed.

Outside is a "Maxon Premix Burner," an incinerator, where the forever-"sleeping" animals are consigned, to become gray ashes for deposit in cans.

The dogs, cats, puppies, kittens, rabbits and what-have-you are happy at the animal control center.

It's cool, even on the hot days. The food is good. The accommodations are clean. The eight sheriff's deputies and other helpers like animals.

Most of the deputies have "adopted" one or more of them in the past.

EVEN THE "tough guys" are comfortable there. Like the giant black, mixed Labrador retriever who, as a deputy explained, "Would take your arm off if you went in there."

He had a stall to himself.

There was a large, glistening-haired German Shepherd.

"He's a beauty. His owner will be calling for him, you bet," said Deputy Charles Stancil.

A YOUNG Cocker Spaniel wagged his tail from another stall. He was picked up in Lafayette, and his owner is a San Leandro resident. "They'll probably come and get him," said Stancil.

A little dachshund wriggled, as Stancil patted her. "She bit someone, and she's under observation. It was just an accident," he explained.

There are usually about 70 dogs at the center at one time, with one up to four or five in each stall.

The stalls are airy, offering each dog a chance to recline in the sun in the outdoors or come inside for water, food and shelter.

THERE ARE separate sections for licensed dogs which have been picked up "biters" under observation and unidentified strays.

Many of them are claimed by owners. If not, they generally graduate to the "adoption" section, where long lines of children and parents come to look, especially on Saturday.

"Saturday is madhouse," sighed Stancil.

There is a "Cats and Puppies" room. The boys and girls mob this room. But when they depart it is usually time to take the old cats to the little room in back And the half-grown cats, too.

PUPPIES arrive in quick order, but the demand for them is high enough so their chances are good.

The animals don't know it, but if they are licensed, they must be kept for 14 days.

If not, the minimum period is 72 hours, although often the stay is lengthened to a full week. Licensing is limited to dogs.

"If we think it is a good dog with a good chance of being adopted, we will keep it longer," said Stancil.

There is a corner where rats and mice are kept.

SOMETIMES they have bitten people, and must be observed for the possibility of rabies, as is the case with the other animals.

There is another section for sick animals.

One small dog there had an oozing eye. Small chance of adoption.

Another stall had a small sheep which looked normal, but which could not be put in with the other animals. Female animals in heat also go into separate stalls, here.

Outside that section are "night deposit" stalls. People can drop off their animals during the night, leaving a note as to the facts of the case.

THERE IS a deposit box for dead animals.

There is a kitchen, although it is not of the suburban type. The refrigerator usually contains heads of dead animals which were suspected of having rabies after biting someone. Chemical tests are possible by this means.

The deputies' procedure calls for recording the names and addresses of persons who leave animals, the reason for leaving them, and other facts.

Even the discarded animal's name may be included, allowing it to hear a familiar call in the strange place.

VARIOUS WAYS are devised for keeping such animals as two owls, which recently were "returned to nature," a swan, which was claimed by its owner, and the numerous rabbits.

A South American-type bear recently appeared in a night deposit box, and was sent to the Boys' Rehabilitation Ranch near Byron.

Deputy Clarence Hanks, the supervisor, said his center was built about two years ago, and last year took in some $122,000, making it more than 80 per cent self-supporting.

The money comes from licenses, animal purchases (starting at $4), impounding fees paid by owners, and quarantine fees.

HANKS HOPES that plans can go ahead for construction of a corral behind the center where horses and other such large animals can get proper exercise.

He hopes for air-conditioning to make the animal stalls more comfortable.

Animals don't think ahead. And so, the animal control center is a happy place.

The dogs, cats and the rest of them usually "never had it so good."

No starvation on a lonely road. No brutal automobile tire to tear them apart, but not kill them immediately.

A HAPPY home awaits, maybe.

And a quiet demise on a full stomach, at worst.

The ordination will be held at the church, 49 Crest Road, Lafayette, at 4 p.m. and a reception will follow. All members and friends of the church are cordially invited to attend.

Mack, a resident of Lafayette, lives with his wife Barbara, and sons Robert Benson, 4, and Theodore Goodwin, 2, at 3161 Plymouth Road.

DURING the past year, he has worked with the Christian Education department of the church while completing his senior year at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, from which he graduated in June. Ben combined his work for ordination with a master's degree in Christian Education.

Born and raised in Pacific Grove, Mack attended Monterey Illinois, in 1952. He served as minister of youth at the Walnut Creek Presbyterian Church for one year, and spent the next four years as a naval aviator. As an anti-submarine pilot, he flew off the USS Princeton and the USS Boxer.

YE INTELLIGENT BUYER'S GUIDE TO FINEST LIQUORS AT FAIREST PRICES
ARE YOU STILL PAYING YESTERDAY'S HIGH PRICES FOR VODKA?

Less than 10 years ago, vodka was such a rarity on the American scene that the Government's records didn't even carry a separate listing for it. Now that vodka has become so popular and is produced in such volume, its production costs have dropped sharply. And yet, many distillers are still charging specialty prices for vodka . . . while Old Mr. Boston has led the way in realistic vodka pricing. Today you can enjoy unmatched vodka quality and smoothness . . . at unmatched savings. Discover why Old Mr. Boston Vodka is one of America's two largest sellers!

INSECTS

Insects have no lungs, according to the National Automobile Club. They breathe by means of tubes running all through their bodies.

Some Orinda Property Rezoned

Some property in the Encinas de Moraga area in Orinda has been rezoned.

The county planning commission approved a request by Duffel and Smoot to rezone property from transitional agricultural district to multiple family residential district.

The property concerned is in Encinal de Boraga fronting on the west side of Camino Encinas approximately 200 feet south of Moraga Way.

Scouts Move Program To Outdoors

Cub Scouts of the Mt. Diablo Council, Boy Scouts of America, have moved their program outdoors during the summer months, announced Norris Pope of Martinez, chairman of the council's activities committee.

He explained that indoor meetings this time of the year are not so desirable. The summer provides opportunities for packs to conduct informal activities in schoolyards, playgrounds, or some member's backyard.

More than half the members of a Cub Scout pack are home during any one time.

The informal summer activities for Cub Scout dens, packs and their families are natural, simple projects boys and parents can do together.

"By planning ahead with parents of Cub Scouts," Mr. Pope said, "this summer will see worthwhile trips, outings, picnics and visits to interesting places. Cub Scouts will soon know that getting to know their community is a form of growing up."

Broadway's 'July Days' Will End on Saturday

Broadway Shopping Center's July Clearance Days will end Saturday, according to B. K. Horne, chairman of the Broadway Merchants' Association.

The big mid-summer parade of values will come to an end with the closing of the stores Saturday afternoon, he said.

Tremendous bargains in all 54 Broadway stores are the highlight of the clearance sale, he said, and anyone who misses out on buying that certain item during the last few days of the sale will be sorry afterwards.

"All of Broadway's 54 modern stores have combined their efforts to present a great array of values." Plan to take part, Horne urged local residents.

ALL BROADWAY stores will be loaded with sales merchandise offered at very special prices, he claimed.

The stores have stocked up on sale items to make sure there will be enough for everyone taking part in the big clearance days.

The annual event is Broadway's summer way of saying "Hello" to new customers and "Here's a special" for the loyal shopper, Horne added.

Aged Favor New Programs

Over half of the initial returns of the countywide survey on housing needs for the 32,000 elderly citizens indicate the greatest interest on the part of central county residents, according to Gertrude Hall, director of the Aging Project for the Community Welfare Council, a United Crusade agency.

Since the returns to date represent only a small percentage of the 62 or over population, many more replies are needed to get a representative sampling, Miss Hall pointed out.

Builders interested in housing for this age bracket will need assurance from a larger segment of the aging populus as to their preferences and recommendations before questionnaire suggestions can be translated into blueprints, she said. Housing questionnaires can be secured from libraries throughout the county.

Of the survey forms received from Walnut Creek, Pleasant Hill and Concord, many indicated they wanted smaller, easy to maintain, moderate rental apartments near others who have retired.

"Loneliness" and "too difficult and expensive to maintain present homes" are the chief reasons for wanting to move.

Many favor "retirement village" living with recreation facilities and apartment buildings designed for older persons near shopping, church and parks. A small number of those replying have stated a need for low cost rentals ($25 to $40).

Typical of the comments received with questionnaires is a letter from a Pleasant Hill couple who write: "We are very much interested in what you are planning to do for the 'old folk' and would sure love to see some housing units near Pleasant Hill Shopping Center and bus line, especially near bus line, as so many older people are not able to drive cars after 65 or 70.

"So many of us older and retired people have moved out here from the Bay Area to get away from fog and smog. We love it out here and sold our home in Berkeley and bought a small three-bedroom house in Pleasant Hill.

"Now after three years out here, we find our place too big and too much garden to keep up. An apartment on first floor with carport, recreation room for women, hobby shop for men and a small community garden spot for those that like gardening, a small cafeteria for those that like to eat out occasionally—these are the dreams of most retired people."

A retired business woman from Danville wrote: "The retirement village is a dream of mine. Most elders would rather be where it is quiet and free from noise of the younger families. Through the day it's the children and their noise, at night—summer or winter—the parents and their parties keep you awake. I have stuffed cotton in my ears so I could sleep.

"The problem that has confronted me was that of finding a place to live when I get my pension. I had rather live in a tent than go to a city and live in a cheap room or apartment. With a pension you have to have cheap rent or do without other things, and old people still have to eat and look respectable."

Senior citizen clubs, churches, recreation departments, social and health agencies are cooperating in the Contra Costa Housing Survey by encouraging older people to fill out questionnaires. Results of the survey will be made public after the questionnaires have been tabulated and summerized in late summer.

Mrs. Dietrich New Pres. of Women's Club

Mrs. William Dietrich was recently elected president of the Women's Club of Pleasant Hill's Christ the King Catholic Church for the 1961-62 club year.

Assuming executive positions in the fall along with Dietrich will be the following mesdames: Richard Amaro, vice-president; Alde Rocca, recording secretary; Edward Ritter, corresponding secretary; Roy Bailey, treasurer; John Tague, historian; and John Stenson, Joseph Mulligan, William Wade, and Raymond Trybul, advisors.

New officers were honored by members of the outgoing executive board at a luncheon in the Random Way home of Mrs. Patrick Hennigan.

Mrs. Frank Murphy, outgoing president, will retain a post on the advisory board.

Navyman Petersen In Western Pacific

Robin S. Petersen, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Petersen of 366 Maureen Lane, Pleasant Hill, has left San Diego to join the Seventh Fleet in the Western Pacific.

Petersen departed aboard the attack transport, USS Pickaway, June 19.

While in the Far East the Pickaway will operate as a unit of Amphibious Squadron Three.

Vacation Driving Means New Traffic Situations

You can drive to and from work all year and never meet a number of situations which will crop up during a two-week motoring vacation, California Highway Patrol Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden reminded motorists this week.

"On a vacation trip you will make many more stops than you are accustomed to, such as view points, eating places, service stations or lodging facilities.

Signal your intention to turn off, and when you park, make sure your vehicle is clear of the roadway.

"Every stop means a start. When you pull back on the road, check to the rear for approaching vehicles.

If you are driving through areas previously unfamiliar to you, remember that the roads also will be unfamiliar. Allow for this by easing off on your speed," he said.

"Road signing also assumes more importance for the vacationer. Make it a point to keep track of signs, so you will be in correct position if a turn is required.

"Finally, vacation trips often put your car through extremes of heat.

Have your radiator and battery checked frequently, and cruise at reduced speeds during the warm afternoon hours when tires are most likely to overheat," the commissioner said.

Ice Follies At Winterland

Championship talent of Shipstads and Johnson Ice Follies is featured in the new Silver Jubilee Edition of the Ice Follies now playing at San Francisco's Winterland.

At the head of the list is the world's champion figure skater, David Jenkins, winner of the 1960 Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley and star of the 25th anniversary Ice Follies.

Three-time winner of the world amateur skating championship and four-time winner of the national amateur title, Jenkins passed his top skating test—the eighth or "gold medal" test—when he was 17.

An equally brilliant skater, who has been a professional since his 'teens, is the dashing and popular Richard Dwyer.

An athletic prodigy, Dwyer passed his gold medal test at 14 and, in the same year, finished third in the United States amateur championship competition.

He held four Pacific Coast amateur championships before turning pro—the juvenile, novice, junior and senior titles.

'La Plume De Ma Tante' Starts Wed. at Alcazar

Direct from triumphs in Paris, London and New York, "La Plume de Ma Tante," produced by David Merrick, comes to the Alcazar from a limited engagement beginning Wednesday.

There will be one Thursday matinee performance the first week, July 27. There will be a matinee performance each Saturday and a performance each Sunday evening at 8 p.m.

Probably the most successful French export after champagne, "La Plume," winner of "The Best Musical of the Year" award and a special Tony award, is the longest-running French play or production ever to play in America. The previous titleholder was "Chauve Souris."

Starring Robert Clary, a Parisian who won acclaim on the Broadway stage in "New Faces" and Liliane Montevecchi, popular French star of films, "La Plume" features a varied group of comedians, singers and dancers of the gay boulevards including Maurice Baquet, Ross Parker, Jacques Legras, Frederick O'Brady, Genevieve Coulombel, Henri Pennec, Chickie James;

Also Julie Drake, Nancy Baron, Jane Carlyle, Sheila Dee, Pierre Tornade, Edmond Varrato, Jill Hougham, Francois Gres, Carole Birner, Svetlana Vasily and many others in French scenes depicting "A Restaurant After Hours," "The Gay Versailles," "Afternoon in the Park," "A Man's Comfort Station at the Corner," "Riotous Bathing Scene on the Riviera" and the "Tower with the Flying Monks."

Mail orders now being received at the Alcazar Theatre for "La Plume de Ma Tante," the Gallic revue right from the Left Bank.

Rooted Cuttings Are Available This Month

Rooted chrysanthemum cuttings are available in C.A.N. nurseries this month, and the gardener who would have fall's finest show, should plant plenty of them. They are easily transplantable from plant bands, and should be pinched back at the time of planting. Cut them back severely (about halfway) in July and keep them moist at all times. Liquid fish should be applied about once every three weeks up to the time the buds show color. Keep plants staked.

'Fiorello,' Top Musical, Is Now Playing at Geary

Lauded and acclaimed by the San Francisco press and public, "Fiorello!" the Broadway musical hit, will end its successful Bay Area engagement on August 5, at the Geary Theatre.

"Fiorello!" which garnered both the coveted Pulitzer Prize and the Drama Critics Award as "the best musical of the year," is enriched by a distinguished cast that includes Bob Carroll who enacts the legendary Mayor La Guardia of New York, Rudy Bond, Paul Lipson, Zeme North, Charlotte Fairchild, Jen Nelson, Rosemary O'Reilly—aided and abetted by a large singing and dancing ensemble.

MASTER MIND behind this musical bonanza is George Abbott who collaborated with Jerome Weidman to fashion the sprightly book. Abbott, of course, has been cited for his brisk direction of the hit musical.

Jerry Bock and Sheldon Harnick are responsible for the lilting musical score which has all America singing "'Til Tomorrow," "Politics and Poker" and "Little Tin Box." Peter Gennaro, who does the choreography for the Perry Como TV show, is credited with the delightful dancing in "Fiorello!"

"FIORELLO!" is the razzle-dazzle saga of New York's all-time favorite mayor, whose follies and foibles endeared him to every voter. There was no end to his lovable madness. When newspapers were on strike, the Little Flower read the Sunday comics to children, young and old.

Whenever a firebell rang, off would he be to squelch the flames, just as he squashed his political foes.

Seats are still available for all performances, and mail orders are readily accepted. Matinees are given Wednesday and Saturday.

Famous Ballet Troupe Coming to Opera House

The New York City Ballet is only 13 years old and has been called time and again "the greatest ballet company in the contemporary world." The famous troupe, headed by George Balanchine, its artistic director, will be paying its first visit to San Francisco in five years, when it opens at the opera house on July 31 for three evenings and one Wednesday (August 2) matinee performance.

Its repertory will be nearly new to this area, and its famous soloists will be headed by Diana Adams, Jacques D'Amboise, Allegra Kent, Jillana, Nicholas Magallanes, Michael Lland, Francisco Moncion, Violette Verdy, Edward Villella and Patricia Wilde.

SINCE THE company became a part of New York City's Center of Music and Drama in 1948, and changed its name from Ballet Society, it has built an enormous and steadfast audience in New York, made numerous tours of Europe, Australia, Japan and the Philippines, and more and more is touring its own country and spreading the popularity of its brilliant repertory, which includes classic works, and new ones, mostly created by the greatest choreographic genius of the 20th Century, George Balanchine.

Balanchine was born in Russia, studied at the Academy of Ballet in St. Petersburg, and continued to dance during the first few years of the present regime.

HE AND a small group of dancers were sent to Western Europe in the early twenties for propaganda purposes — and they never returned; Balanchine became ballet master to the great Diaghilev and began to create new works.

In 1933 he was invited to America by Lincoln Kirstein, to found a school of American ballet from which eventually it was hoped a native American ballet company could be created. This dream has come to pass, Kirstein and Balanchine are still working together, and the New York City Ballet is a reality.

Refuge for Unlucky Girls

Young girls from broken or unfit homes will find refuge in the "Cindrella Cottage" in Walnut Creek.

Women of the local Mispah Chapter of King's Daughters have been licensed as a group to conduct the foster home facility, which will occupy an old home at 1186 Alta Vista Court.

They will be able to take care of six girls from 12 to 16 years of age, relieving the load on the Juvenile Hall on Arnold Industrial Highway.

BEST OF ALL, the "Cinderella Cottage" will not mix innocent girls who are the victims of circumstances with delinquent girls.

The King's Daughters chapter is being assisted by the Ygnacio Valley Women's Club, which has already purchased a freezer, washing machine and refrigerator for the "cottage."

Three girls will arrive to live in the home Monday. Their stay will be for only six weeks, at which time they will go into regular foster homes in the area.

Mrs. Alfred Virden of Walnut Creek is the president of the local King's Daughters chapter, and she may be called by persons who wish to help.

MRS. FRED Kruse, president of the Ygnacio Valley Women's Club, said her group is helping out as part of its community service project.

The cottage will have a young minister and his wife as houseparents.

Mrs. Kruse said the cost of taking care of a youngster is $375 per month and the county is paying $200 per month per child to the chapter, resulting in a saving for the county.

King's Daughters must make up the difference in volunteer help and fund raising.

HE BEGAN his career in San Francisco in 1936 and held positions of increasing responsibility in various offices in the city until leaving for service in the air corps during the war. Resuming his career in 1945, he was assigned to the inspection department at the head office, advancing to inspector four years later. He transferred to the accounting department as an assistant cashier in 1952.

CHP Reminds Motorists To Have Lights Aligned

The California Highway Patrol suggests to vacationing motorists who are carrying camping equipment in their vehicles or are pulling heavy trailers to be sure their headlights are still in alignment.

"Extra weight in the back of station wagons, in pickup trucks equipped with living quarters, and even in family sedans can tilt the front end of the car enough to raise the headlights to an illegal position," CHP Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden said.

Crittenden said headlights must be strong enough to light the road so that a person or vehicle can be seen for a distance of 100 feet when the low beam is used and 350 feet when the high beam is used. But they must not blind an oncoming driver under any conditions.

"Headlights that are tilted upward because the rear of the vehicle has been lowered by extra weight can blind oncoming drivers and thus be illegal," he said.

"This problem can be eliminated by having the lights aligned while the vehicle is loaded and ready for the vacation trip."

John Babcock Is Promoted

John W. Babcock of Orinda has been named general sales manager of Industrial Hard Chrome Plating Corporation of Emeryville.

Babcock is a graduate of the University of California at Berkeley. He served in the Navy during World War II and during the Korean War he was a commander, USNR.

He joined Industrial Hard Chrome Plating Corporation in 1953 as plant superintendent. In 1958 he was made manager of the Hollis Street Job Shop.

He lives in Orinda with his wife and four sons.

Fire Lanes Will Protect Sleepy Hollow

Fire lanes will be created around the perimeter of the Briones Reservoir construction site to protect the community of Sleepy Hollow from accidental fire hazard.

The Orinda Fire District will supervise the burning on watershed property of the East Bay Municipal Utility District.

The preventive burning will be done at the earliest opportunity when the day is relatively cool and there is little or no wind—probably this week.

Briones Dam site is three miles northwest of Orinda and a mile and a quarter east of San Pablo Road. Sleep Hollow lies just over the ridge to the south.

Youth Pleads Guilty to Contributing

Robert David Ramet, 18, 89 El Gavilan, Orinda, pleaded guilty Monday in Superior Court to contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The court in Martinez will sentence him August 28. Also during August he will be tried on three traffic violations in connection with the contributing incident.

According to the report the charge was filed against the youth after he fled with a 15 year old girl in his car while a sheriff's patrol car chased him.

The girl and Ramet were pursued after the girl was reported missing by her mother. They gave themselves up later to authorities.

Jonathon Batchelor Exhibits Oils Here

Trips, Parties, Relaxin' Key Summer Activity

By KITTY MIKA and ANN LINCOLN

As summer nears the halfway mark Orinda teeners enjoy summer sports and a busy night life.

Parties were in style last weekend! Richard Lyman had an open house both Friday and Saturday nights. A combo, including Ron Villata and Vince Campanile, entertained those who dropped in Friday night, and Ron was still playing for Saturday night's guests. Almost every Orinda teenager dropped it at the Lyman's at one time or another.

SHARON Nielsen also had a party Saturday night. Mike McQuaid, Cindy Gravelle and Bruce Nickerson, Clint DeWitt and Barbie Brush, Jo-an Scholberg and Roger McCosker, Betty Schoppe and Dwight Thompson and Robert Boyle and Mary Baker were among those who ate pizza and danced.

Sunday night a P.F. party was held at the home of Robbie Spott. Tara Doty, Betsy Blossom, Rick Borden, Scott Huntley and Sandy Ballard swam and danced. Sue MacGuiddy went swimming but not through her own choice.

Steve Greyhouse had a dinner party for some sophomore couples. Some of the couples were Steve and Joanne Boysen, Bill Cooper and Chess MacIntyre and Hap Parks and Linda Tiefel.

"PARRISH', the movie with Troy Donahue, seems to attract many Orinda girls. A group of senior girls were seen at the Fox Oakland one night. Patsy Kelly sat goggled-eyed through the whole picture.

Jan Miller's Danish sister, Kisse Beyor, stayed with the Miller family for two and a half weeks. Jan couldn't see her because she is working on a ranch in Wyoming, but Pam Pearson and Wendy Wilcox showed Kisse around Orinda, and some senior girls took her bowling. Kisse really showed them up, when she got a strike the very first time she tried bowling.

WATER skiing was enjoyed by quite a few Orinda teeners last weekend. Sue Nattress, and family, spent the weekend at their but . . . Mike LaPlant also went up to Clear Lake, with the Jauncle's resort at Clear Lake. Sue almost made it up on one ski, cobsen family.

Last week Karen Nattress and her mother relaxed in the sun at Carmel. Somehow they got lost on the way down, and the drive took them four and one half hours.

Carol Myer brought four of her friends with her to her cabin in the Napa Valley. The girls who accompanied the Myers for four days were Chris Campbell, Crissy Voll, Karen Nattress and Gayle Baker.

IT SEEMS Holly Borden had a little trouble on her way to Europe. While in New York she lost her camera, and while trying to find it, lost the group she was with. Holly ended up taking a plane to catch up with them.

We hear that Nancy Englehard has discovered a new sport at Tahoe—mountain climbing. She is going to take it up as a hobby.

Linda Sears has returned from her trip to Canada—how was the fishing Linda?

Tonight La Val's Villa is presenting "The Starlight Dance." It will last from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. and the entertainment includes a combo and singer Scotty Scott, an Acalanes senior. Tickets to tonight's dance, and similar dances to be held at La Val's every two weeks to be sold at the door. In charge of the entertainment is Jim Parrish.

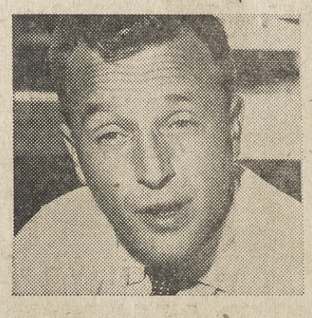
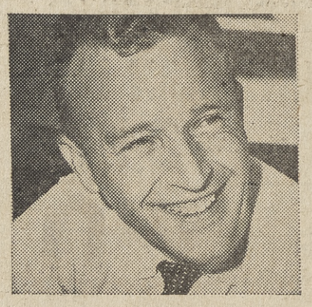
"A couple of weeks ago I took my wife and daughter out to look at the way EBMUD has enlarged its San Leandro filter plant."



"That filter bed we're looking at purifies water. Pure water's important to me, because I'm in the laundry business in Oakland."

"In some areas, laundries have to purify their own water. It's costly. In the East Bay, though, EBMUD saves us that expense."



"In fact, EBMUD is the only major water supplier in the West that filters every drop of water. No wonder our water's so pure!"

Ed, Kathy, and Delores Burton inspect EBMUD's recently expanded Upper San Leandro Filter Plant.

Oakland's Ed Burton says: "No wonder our water's so pure!"

Call it a busman's holiday—when a laundry supervisor visits a filter plant on his day off. But Ed Burton wanted his family to see a miracle that happens every day, right in their own backyard: water purification.

Thanks to the miracle of pure, soft EBMUD water, your clothes stay cleaner, your water tastes better, you stay healthier. And, thanks to your $283-million Water Development Program, EBMUD's capacity to purify your water is assured for the rest of the century.
